Meet Dr. Timothy Mineo, D.P.M
A Foot and Ankle Doc with a Passion for the Mountains

Long before Timothy Mineo became a foot and ankle doctor, he was a skier. He started skiing at the age of three, competed at the University of Colorado, got into summer free skiing on the glaciers of British Columbia in the early days of terrain parks, and ski-bummed his way from Copper Mountain to Lake Tahoe in between college and medical school. In fact, it was a pair of ski injuries, along with his experience working as a ski-boot-fitter in Tahoe that convinced him to pursue medicine and to specialize in feet and ankles. “I liked the mentality of wanting to help people, and I found that there were doctors who can be like teachers and really keep you motivated and active, and that’s their goal, to get you back out there in your sport. And there were other doctors who were like, ‘What are you doing? You need to quit.’ I never wanted to be that person. My goal is to get you right back out there.” So if you are suffering from ankle problems, don’t go another day with pain. Call today and set up your appointment so you can get back to enjoying life!
